A unanimous decision was reached to replace regular troops in tribal areas with scouts and khassadar. However, in 1947, 1947, several several British army and political officers were performing duties on the frontier.^A Evelyn Cobb was Political Agent (PA) of Malakand Agency and he raised Pakistani flag on August 14, 1947.^A Lieutenant Colonel Vernon Cox was resident of Waziristan, Captain Robin Hodson was PA of North Waziristan and P. T. Duncan was PA South Waziristan.^A Several officers were ably administering frontier settled districts including Arthur Dredge at Bannu, Andre Wooler at Kohat and St. John Major at Hazara. Colonel Dennis Ambrose (1/6 Rajputana Rifles) served for over two decades with scouts and was Inspecting Officer Frontier Corps (IOFC) from 1945-48. In 1948, Inspector General Frontier Corps (IGFC) was Brigadier D. H. J. Williams (6/13 FFRifles) and his deputy was Colonel W. H. Fitzmaurice (6/13 FFRifles).^A Richard Corfield (17/13 Frontier Force Rifles) stayed with scouts serving with Tochi Scouts from 1945 to 1949 and then with South Waziristan Scouts 1949-50. In 1947-48, four British officers commanded South Waziristan Scouts (SWS); Lieutenant Colonels: D. R. Venning (5th Gurkha Rifles), A. C. S. Moore (Guides Infantry), K. M. Chambers (3/8 Punjab Regiment) and D. K. Old-Rini.^A In 1950, Lt. Colonel J. Harvey Kelly (4/10 Baluch Regiment) briefly commanded SWS.^A P. C. Garrett (2/12 Frontier Force Regiment) served with 2hob Militia from 1947-50.Major William Brown (10/12 Frontier Force Regiment) was commandant of Gilgit Scouts in 1947-48 and responsible for annexation of Gilgit with Pakistan. His second-in-command during this time was Captain A. S. Mathieson (Seaforth Highlanders). Mathieson had earlier served as khassadar officer in North Waziristan (1946-47).^A On 12 January 1948, Major Brown handed command of Gilgit Scouts to Major Aslam Khan while Captain Muhammad Khan became second in command.Withdrawal of regular troops from tribal areas was envisioned under British high command after Second World War.^A Even if India was according to the British government, it was very likely that by the fall of 1948 all regular troops would have been withdrawn. The part of India and the division of the armed forces in early 1947 accelerated this decision. In October 1947, Pakistan's General C-in-C Frank Messervy at a meeting with the founder of the country Muhammad Ali Jinnah, where Cunningham was also present, warned that the Pakistani army was in poor condition and suggested that regular Waziristan troops be withdrawn within three months. The three present at the meeting agreed and the Government of Pakistan made the final decision in October 1947. On November 06, Waziristan Resident announced this decision to the tribal jirga. The troop withdrawal code called Operation Curzon was completed by December 1947. The withdrawal of the army from tribal areas was made under the watchful eyes and close cooperation of explorers and khassadars. The Razmak Brigade, composed of all Muslim and Pakistani soldiers, withdrew under the protection of the Tochi Explorers, commanded by W. Sandison (5/8 Punjab Regiment) and khassadars, commanded by David Treffy. After the retreat, the Razmak, Wana and Gardai brigades were dissolved in December 1947. The last tragic act of the colonial company when the curtain fell was the murder of the last British officer on the border; North Waziristan political agent Patrick Duncan on May 31, 1948. The key factor that most historians have ignored is the link between the border issue and the incursion of tribal men into Kashmir in 1947. In early September 1947, almost all the tribes on the border were asking British governor Sir George Cunningham to let them go kill Sikhs. With some satisfaction, Cunningham wrote that "only I would have to hold my small finger to get a lashkar odnayoqa odnayoqa labirt n^Aisurcni al aratnemua eug ^Ajesnoca eI y hannj a ^Aicmcc mahgninnuC .erbutco ed 92 IE .subirt sol a arayoqa eug arap hannj a renevnoc arap ovistced euf mahgninnuC edrat sJAM .ohoc ed 4000605 oWith supplies and exercise more control. The same day, a meeting attended by Prime Minister Liaqat Ali Khan agreed to support the tribe members who establish a committee of seven members based in Abbottabad. However, Cunningham had him doubts about him and he was not sure how this will end. He wrote that "the damage has been done, and we have to take advantage of the situation." Kashmir Valley for the third week of October 1947. This means that they must have left their homes at least one or two weeks before in early October. Thousands of armed tribes capable were already out of their den that they went to more green pastures in Kashmir. What was promised to the members of the tribe, but of some posterior oral traditions, it has been suggested that they were told to keep the weapons and the ammunition captured, so like any botine. On their way to Kashmiria, the members of the tribe lived outside the earth in the Pakistan territory. Even in cities like Abbottabad, they entered any store and took what they liked. In Kashmiria, they generally rejected the food offered by local Muslims for fear of poisoning and generally grabbed sheep or goats and sacrificed and cooked for consumption. In Kashmir, they looted from Muslims and not Muslims equally. They returned with captured arms, ammunition, gold, etc. and even brought some captured ashlohes. However, only a woman of women ended in tribal areas. The majority of women were kidnapped by the fighting fighters controlled by Pakistan^A, Hazar and Punjab. Ungle Mindy looked for a separate homeland for Muslims and for seven years looked on different fronts. He now suffered from advanced lung tuberculosis, his cold He could not support his ungli mind to address the crisis in Kashmir. Local leadership in Punjab and NWFP was looking for Kashmir's problem. Back to the members of the Muslim tribes, who demanded a Holy War against the Hindoves and Sijs. He admitted that he was not sure to contain them in excess. The Secretary of Defense, Iskandar Mirza, told Cunningham that when the issue of tribal vessel was addressed, Jinnah said "Do not tell me. They were transferred to Srinagar, on the night of October 27 to 28, Jinnah order the lieutenant General Douglas Gracey, who was officiating C-in-C to send troops to Kashmir of Pakist^A Indian Cabinet, everyone opposed the idea and, in the end, only Mounbatten went to Lahore to meet Jinnah. On November 1, Jinnah met Mounbatten to discuss the situation of Kashmir. Jinnah suggested that both parties should retire. When Mounbatten asked him how the members of the tribe could be canceled, in their communications lines. It can be an argument of an intelligent lawyer but not in line with soil realities. The dynamic internal tribal and the local policy maneuver determined who went to Kashmir. NWFP Chief Minister Khan Abdul Qayyum Khan and Muslim League Supporter Pir of Manki Sharif Lobbied Pushtuns of Settled As Well As Tribal Areas For Kashmir. Most were the Pushtuns of Mardan and Swat and Pushti and Hindko speaking Hazarawas, as well as the Mahsud, Afridi, Mohmand and Bajawar tribesans. Recently, the NWFP Congress Ministry and Abdul Ghaffar Khan followers remained away. Wazir's representation was very small since Ipi Faqir in Wazirist had prohibited his followers from joining the assenture of Kashmir. A rival Pir de Wana and others who competed with IPI FAQIR due to local influence sent a small group of Wazirs. Ipi Faqir that had been a thorn on the British side was not willing to accept the rule of the Angled Indians, even if Muslim Company. Later, everyone blamed the tribes for all failures in Kashmir. Two veterans pro-pakist^A kashmiri of Kashmiri controlled by Pakist^A that fought in 1947-48 more late saw the induction of the men of tribes as a day after the cause of puppy. Referring to the sardar tribes abdul qayyum khan declared that "the movement suffered a great setback because they were uncontrollable." He added that they did a lot of damage and the looting created a very bad printing since they looted Muslims and not Muslims equally. Referring to Pakistan^A, he said, they made an absolute mistake allowing a thing like this. Sardar Ibrahim Khan, while appreciating the qualities of struggle of the tribes, was the opinion that we have made a terrible mistake, referring to any command and control of the tribes. Another pro-pakistani kashmiri Muhammad Yusuf Saraf; a resident of Baramula and subsequent president of the Court of Pakisthen, he also administered Kashmir Hindus and Muslims regarding the loot and arson. The local cinema room became a kind of restricted brothel. The tribal factor should be seen in the general context. Tribesmen was angry at the latest news of atrocities against Muslims during the partition butchery now wanted to embark on a religious obligation. In carrying out this duty, they also sought an opportunity to plunder and plunder clearly. They were small hands led by their own clan leaders and they all depended on the good or the bad were these leaders. There was no central command or supply arrangement. Except the rebellion of the locals in Poonch, the local population of Kashmir was too frightened or passive for an armed rebellion. Tribesmen played an important part in fighting the territory that is now controlled by Pakistan Kashmir. Years later, the tribes appeal to the political agents for favors that point to the fact that they had gone to Kashmir to remove the Pakistani chestnuts from the fire. If it had not been addressed to the Kashmir tribes in October 1947, some of them would have left the Muslim majority districts established in Pakistan near their border. This conclusion is based on the simple fact that the general breakdown of the law and order or signs of weakness by the government is an opportunity on the part of the assemblers to deprive the inhabitants of the plains of their wealth. Some incidents when it became clear that the British were pointing to this fact. In April 1947, Bhattanis; generally, a weak tribe and some mahsuds looted the border town of Tank. They not only looted the city but burned the property and cut off their water supply. A strong detachment of seven platoons under a British officer assured the city. Another detachment under Major James(5/13 Punjab Regiment) was sent to patrol and found that three Mahsud lashkars were on their way to take their share in the botine. A severe warning of Majory Maturity that area was well defended turned out to melt from the Mahsuds. When Wazirs found out about Free For All Affair in Tank, hundreds of Wazirs with stairs and ropes and a chain of camels heading for Bannu. Pakistan faced enormous challenges without infrastructure of new government, avalanche of refugees, precarious laws and order and serious economic concerns. Jinnah brought back British political veteran Sir George Cunningham from the retreat as governor of NWFP. Sir Ambrose Dundas was appointed chief commissioner of Baluchistan and then he succeeded Cunningham as governor of NWFP. IPS was absorbed by the Ministry of State and border affairs. Only a handful of Indians were serving with IP therefore the officers of the Provincial Civil Service (PC) who served in subordinate positions were promoted and sent to tribal agencies. in the House of Government in Peshawar on 17 April 1948, it shows the complexity it faced. The tribes were concerned about two subjects; to maintain their independence and continuation of assignments as under the British domain. They basically requested the continuation of the status quo and Jinnah bound. On the issue of freedom, he said, "Pakistan does not want to interfere unduly with his internal freedom." This was exactly what the regulation of border crimes was about. where tribal customs were codified. Jinnah first criticized the assignments that indicate that "you depend on the annual numbers" and "at the end of the year you were no better than beggars asking for assignments, if possible a little more CTM. After criticizing him, he said that while he wishes to continue with these assignments and Khassadars, therefore, without my government, without my government have any desire to modify the existing system, but I added the warning "always remain loyal and faithful to Pakistan." Some restrictions on tribal men were abolished and tribal society gradually integrated with the country. Charles Chenevix Trench.
